

The Kentucky Fair Health Care Financing Act of 1972, HB 100, is a landmark piece of legislation that established the Kentucky Fair Health Care Financing Board. The board was created to oversee the state's health care financing system, which was at the time a complex and fragmented system of various health care programs. The act was signed into law by Governor Bert T. Combs on February 11, 1972.

The court finds that the following Medical Malpractice is the proximate cause of the injuries:

The Court found Walter to be a quid pro quo sexual harassment case, 226 F.3d 1075, 1075 A.S.D. (11th Cir. 2000).
