

For one example, the state claimed that the plaintiff would not receive private duty nursing in any institution.

Although a state is not obliged to create entirely new services or to otherwise alter the substance of the