

Executive Director Emily Spitzer's recent Huffington Post blog focuses on the imminent launch of the health insurance marketplaces. A long time in coming, we are now only days away from the first open enrollment under the Affordable Care Act.

And if you missed it, this month's Health Advocate also focuses on open enrollment with a recap of how far we've come in three short years.

We hope you take the time to read these as we know there won't be much time for reading next week.